

Northwestern Career Advancement (NCA) sponsors supervised internships for graduate students in counseling during the academic year (fall, winter, and spring quarters). This opportunity is designed to give students broad and comprehensive exposure to all aspects of career services as well as in-depth experience in career counseling. Interns are asked to give approximately 20 hours each week depending on the requirements of their program.

Workshops and Career Fairs play a large role in most career service offices. Participation helps interns to get a feel for the types of programming done by career service offices.
